

KAT MILLER PHOTOGRAPHY

Although I have been an Everett artist for 20 years you will probably search in the back your mind to remember me. That's because I also own a local business that has nothing to do with art. I was the art curator at a popular IPA bar during the past Everett artwalks and had my artwork displayed at many of the local businesses including Woodfire. I have done many of the street fairs and most of the local artist know me.

I have been a landscape/nature photographer since my early 20's. I am now 67. I didn't start displaying my art until I moved to the little Historical Township of Lowell which is a suburb of Everett. I had the great fortune of meeting Jules Anslow and sharing an art studio with her at Lowell Artworks. That was my introduction to the Everett art world.

I am self-taught photographer and artist. I create art with my photography using software filters and materials such as canvas, aluminum, water color paper and I just complete a photo transfer to glass. I love experimenting and then creating a unique and beautiful piece of art.
